

Critical Mass-Starter Checklist

1. Basics & Intent

- ☐ Find 1–3 people you enjoy planning this with
- ☐ Clarify your main goals (visibility, fun, political message, growth...)
- ☐ Decide how “organized” you want to appear (visible organizers vs. loose structure)
- ☐ Think of your target audience and plan accordingly (all people who want to bike? activists? families?)
- ☐ Decide how often you can realistically ride (monthly is common)

2. Identity & Structure

- ☐ Pick a name (usually Critical Mass + City)
- ☐ Agree on a simple mission or slogan (can be used on social media)
- ☐ Decide on date & time (many cities choose last Friday of the month)
- ☐ Decide whether the ride has a fixed route or goes spontaneously

(Logo, website, flags, branded vests, stickers, maps of the route make the whole thing more legit.)

3. Team Communication & Safety

- ☐ Set up a simple way to communicate (messenger group, shared doc)
- ☐ Decide who leads the ride, who stays at the back, who corks (amount depends on group-size)
- ☐ Talk about basic safety: closing gaps, dealing with traffic/emergency vehicles, critical route-sections
- ☐ Decide how to handle potential conflicts with motorists (joyful attitude deescalates and looks inviting)

4. Spreading the Word

- ☐ Create a broad online presence (lots of CMs are on Instagram; create Facebook events)
- ☐ Tell people directly: friends, bike groups, activists, organisations, schools...
- ☐ Make and share posters (digital and print), flyers, stickers...

(Media outreach, a website and an online campaign are more work but very effective.)

5. Before the Ride

- ☐ Share meeting point, time, route, other info online. The more you post about it, the more people come
- ☐ Get at least one big speaker for music (maybe you'll need a cargo bike/trailer) and make a playlist
- ☐ Talk through “what if” scenarios within the team (rain, delays, conflicts...)

6. During the Ride

- ☐ Welcome people, give a speech (megaphone!), explain principles like corking
- ☐ Keep the group together and move out of the way if emergency vehicles want through
- ☐ Take photos or videos (to share online, make reels, send to the press etc.)
- ☐ Enjoy the ride

7. After the Ride

- ☐ Share photos/videos online and thank participants
- ☐ Talk about what worked, what didn't, get feedback
- ☐ Plan the next ride
- ☐ Improve gradually and grow the mass

Also recommended

- Take meeting notes and plan tasks between rides
- Stay independent from political parties
- Choose a finish line where community can hang-out
- Research CM history and clarify your values
- Agree on how to deal with police
- Ask city bike programs for attendee discount codes
- Use app Critical Maps so people can find the ride
